A NEW HUMORIST

WHO IS LIKELY TO VARY THE LEGISLATIVE MONOTONY.

GENERAL SPINOLA'S READY WIT. What the Week Is Likely to Bring Forth in Congress-Questions Which Will Have the Right of Way-Personal.

WASHINGTON, February 1 .- [Special.]-Genral Spinola, of New York, has come to the ront recently as one of the brightest humorists of congress.

The other day Mr. Lewis, of Mississippi, a new member, in making a short set speech in reply to strictures upon his state by | Kelly, of Kansas, cried out dramatically: "The gentleder! murder! murder!"

Mr. Lewis yelled the word "murder" in such a loud voice, and so dramatically that General Spinola jumped from his seat and startled the house by crying out in an equally loud voice, "police! police!" Then there was such an uproar of laughter that Mr. Lewis was compelled to take his seat and wait for full two minutes until the house could be quieted. General Spinola likewise got off a good on on Mr. Morse, of Massachusetts, the other day.

General Spinola wears a very high collar of the old time kind. It comes high up around his ears. Mr. Morse is the manufacturer of the "Rising Sun stove polish." He wears a diamond in his scarf fully the size of a small marble, but is considered a "harmless sort of a fellow." He makes a ch whenever he can get the floor, whether he knows anything about the subject or not.

The other day he was replying to something General Spinola had said, when he referred to the general's high collar. Spinola imme diately jumped up to remark:

"It would be useless for the gentleman from Massachusetts to wear a high collar. He could not find one high enough to hide his ears," and then the house burst into a roar of

The silver fight in the house promises to be the center of interest during the next ten days or more. The free coinage men have been laying low recently, but they are now ready to act. If the coinage committee re-fuses to report back the senate bill on Wednesday, then the free comage men will force the issue. Mr. Bland will call up his resolution discharging the committee from further consideration of the bill. If Reed rules that the resolution is not privileged, and refuses to entertain an appeal, or is sus-tained on appeal, then Mr. Bland will await his opportunity and offer the senate free coinage bill as a substitute for the first bill that is considered. Speaker Reed will perhaps decide this is not in order, and then Mr. Bland will appeal, and there will be a true test of the strength of free coinage. If the free coinage advocates are in the majority, they can then go right on and pass the senate bill. What the Senate May Do.

The senate is shaping its business with the firm determination to adjourn March 4th, without leaving behind it the necessity for an extra session. To this end, the "steering" committee of the republican majority has already arranged a programme that would, of itself, occupy the attention of the senate for two weeks. This arrangement, however, is not final, as it must be formally approved by the republican caucus, and is, besides, subject to interruption in its working by appropriation bills. The fortification appropriation bill comes up tomorrow as unfinished business, and the pension appropriation bill, now on the calendar. and the District of Columbia appropriation bill, soon to be reported, will follow in order. In the morning hours an effort will be made to pass the Indian depredation claims bill, and sandwiched between the above named approriation bills will probably be the eight-hour bill and the copyright bill. An attempt is also being made to secure action upon the bankruptcy bill.

Although the house has been engaged practically the whole of the past week in consideration of the regular annual appropriation bills, these measures are still in an unusually backward state, and it is the intention of the majority to rmit substantially no legislation except the shipping bill to engage the attention until the scene of action on appropriations is very generally transferred from the house to the senate wing of the capitol. It is the purpose of the committee on merchant marine to make an effort to call up the shipping bill and press it to a final vote as soon as the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, now under consideration, is passed; but, in view of the determined opposition heretofore made to the shipping bill, there is some question as to the ability of its friends to carry out their expressed intentions, especially as it is almost certain to be antagozed by one or more appropriation bills. The Indian and legislative, executive and judicial ng action, and will be called up at the first favorable opportunity. The Remainder of the Session. Only four weeks and three days remain of the fifty-first congress, and not a single one of the thirteen regular annual appropriation bills has been finally passed by both branches of congress, and sent to the president. But one of these bills has passed the senate-the army bill-which went through yesterday with a number of amendments, on which action of the house is needed. The pension and fortifi-cation appropriation bills are on the senate calendar, ready for consideration. Three other bills, namely, those making appropriations for the District of Columbia, the military academy and the navy have passed the house but are not yet acted on by the senate committee. Of the remaining appropriation bills, the consular and diplomatic, Indian and bills, the consular and diplomatic, Indian and legislative have been reported to the house, and two others, the sundry civil and agricultural, will be placed on the calendar early this week, so that the general deficiency and the postoffice bills will be the only ones left to be reported from the committee.

While the present condition of the appropriation bills is not encouraging as compared with the state of progress in previous congresses no doubt is entertained by experienced members of both the house and the senate of the ability of congress to complete its absolutely necessary legislation before noon of the 4th of March.

The Cabinet Vacancy

In speaking of the vacancy in the cabinet, esterday, Senator Stewart, of Nevada, who diertains neither admiration nor respect for esident, is quoted as saying: "I think the president will undoubtedly apoint some goldbug to fill the place made va-cant by the death of Secretary Windom, but l lope that whoever is appointed, Har-ison will not kill him by forcing him to make speeches against free him to make speeches against free sinage. I am confident that Mr. Windom's each was due to the fact that he spoke at the lead of trade dinner in New York. He appeared there at the urgent request of the president, who knew that Mr. Windom was suf-fering from heart disease. The president was aware the occasion would be a great opportunity to present the views of the administration, and that no one could give them so much force and effect as his secretary of the treasury. Mr. Windom was a full-blooded man, and the trouble with his heart was, of course, aggravated by any unusual exertion. I do hop the president will not kill his successor by making him uphold the views of the administration in an official way."

Proposition that the Women of the Country Should Take Action. WASHINGTON, February 1 .- The General Spinner Memorial Association, organized by the female employes of the government in Washington, for the purpose of perpetuating the memory of General Spinner, has issued an address to the women of America, in which, after referring to the fact that Spinner opened the doors of the departments to women, they

The good that such men do lives after them, and is so far-reaching in its effects that none may compute it. In the love and gratitude of those they benefit lies their most fitting memorial, but that future generations may know to whom gratitude is due, it is well to build something tangible; something to be seen not only by the mind's eye; something that will speak to all hearts, and if they but heed, will teach the lesson of love and sympathy for their kind.

"To every woman and every friend of woman throughout this broad land, this association sends greetings, and asks their assistance in making this memorial to General Spinner one in which the women of America may take just pride."

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE FUNERAL. How the Late Secretary Windom Will Be

Buried. WASHINGTON, February 1 .- All the arrangements for the funeral of the late Secretary Windom have now been completed. Private services will fake place at the house at 11 o'clock, and the members of the family, relatives, the president and his cabinet, and the servants of the family will attend these services. They will be brief, and at their onclusion the entire party will proceed to the church. The members of the cabinet will be nonorary pallbearers, and a number of the treasury department employes, composing a detachment of the sixth battalion of the District of Columbia National Guard, will act as

A BROOKLYN MAN REIGNS In Queer Costa Rica-The Country Where

Marriage Is Exceptional. PITTSBURG, February 1.-T. E. Wheeler, who, until recently, was train dispatcher on mother, who lives in this city. He says that republic is boiling over with crime. Marriage is considered an institution for the rich and for foreigners. On the Costa Rican Independence Day, September 15th, the governor at Port Limon gave a reception. It was for upon his people that no one should attend who had not been married. Only one native couple was present, though hundreds were anxious was present, though hundreds were anxious to go.

The laborers of Costa Rica are negroes from the West Indies. They are treated worse than animals. One day Mr. Wheeler saw a boatload of natives driving a negro overboard. They would not let him back on the boat, but told him to swim or drown. The sea was rough, but the black man, being an expert swimmer, escaped to the shore, and left for his home in Jamaica next day. They government is patterned after that of the United States, but a man named Minus C. Keith is said to be the real ruler. Keith is a Brooklyn man. He holds no office, but he permits no man to hold office without his consent. Keith owns the only railroad in the country and oneman to hold office without his consent. Rethowns the only railroad in the country and one-half of the banana platations. The inhabitants are obedient to him, and his rule is a wise one. He has put the government on a practical footing. Every Costa Rican is a chronic office seeker, and if he fails to get the office he wants he threatens a rebellion. Then Keith sits down on him.

NEW YORK, February 1.—The Herald has the following cablegram from Paris:

Much interest is manifestedin medical circles here in regard to the "goat's blood cure" for tuberculosis, advocated by Drs. Bertin and Picq, of the Nantes faculty. These doctors, it will be remembered, injected fitteen grammes of goat's blood into the thighs of two patients, and on Monday asserted in this city that cures can be brought about by renewing such injections every ten days. Today they announce cures can be brought about by renewing such injections every ten days. Today they announce that in the case of both these patients the fever has abated. One of the patients, a woman, whose temperature prior to the injection was 102, shows a decline of two degrees, her temperature now being 100 degrees.

JACKSON, Miss., February 1.—[Special.]— Eugene Story, the celebrated criminal, who killed Marshal Stout, of Aberdeen, at Gallion, a., a few days since, was brought here by the sheriff of Holmes county last night, and put in a cell in the state penitentiary.

THE ORIGINAL MURDER.

Story killed a man in Holmes county named Kleinfelder, in the fall of 1889, and was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hung. His case was appealed to the supreme court, but before it was reached, a mob of Story's friends, in January, 1890, disguised themselves, overpowered the jailer at Covington, and released the murderer. King Humbert Engaged in the Effort to Patch Up a Cabinet.

ROME, February 1.—King Humbert had a conference today with the president of the senate and the president of the chamber of deputies in reference to the ministerial crists. A very difficult decision, it adds, rests with King Humbert.

The Milan Secolu (democratic) congratulates the country on the defeat of Premier Crispi, which it declares to be a guarantee of peace and real deliverance for Italy.

Paris, February 1.—The Journal Desire Debats, commenting on the ministerial crisin in Italy, says: "We do not expect the foreign policy of Italy of the last eight years will perish with the retirement of Signor Crispi, although the next cabinet will, assuredly, profit by the lesson and promote good relations with France."

HE DINED WITH BISMARCK,

And the Emperor Afterward Treated Him Coolly—German Gossip.

Berlin, January 31.—[Copyright 1891, by New York Associated Press.]—The resignation of Count von Waldersee from his position as chief of the general staff is not assured, as was reported, with his appointment as commander of the Ninth army corps, which was made vacant by the withdrawal of General Leczynski. Like the latter, Von Waldersee retires from his position as chief of staff through his inability to agree with the emperor. Members of the court and official circles are past being surprised at anything that may happen in the emperor's administration. General Leczynski, six months ago, was a favorite of the emperor. He was openly spoken of by the emperor as among the most able of the German generals. Leczynski, a short time ago, dined with Prince Bismarck. The next time he had to attend the emperor was upon the occasion of his majesty's recent visit to Cuxhaven. He was then treated with studious coldness, the emperor affecting to be exclusively occupied with the attentions of Hamburg officials, and accorded the general only the curtest necessary notice. The causes of Von Waldersee's retirement are repeated differences with the emperor and Chancellor von Caprivi in regard to army questions. His unflinching adhesion to the set of ex-Court Chaplain Stoecker has, however, irritated the imperial temper more than any military dispute. Von Waldersee was present, Thursday, at the annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association in which Stoecker is a shining light. Besides these changes, Minister Maybach has offered his resignation to the emperor, but the imperial acceptance has been delayed.

Minister Mayorch has offered his resignation to the emperor, but the imperial acceptance has been delayed.

General A lbedyll will retire from command of the Eighth army corps April 1st, after he celebrates the jubilee of his entrance into the army. Baron Meerscheidt will also retire from the command of the guards and will be bleed upon the general parts of the guards and will be sheed upon the general parts. placed upon the superannuated list. The baron's retirement is the genuine result of old age. Albedyll, however, is still fit for good work. The emperor's restless nature, spells of irritability and uncertain moods are due to physical causes, which make him a difficult master to serve.

The Post states that Count von Waldersee desired to command an army corps. The emperor in the mean time has given to him only a chain of the order of Hohenzollern. His successor as chief of staff will probably be General from Haeseler, who has the shighest reputation as a strategist. He was for a long time a member of the general staff before he went to Metz to command a corps garrisoning Alsace-Lorraine. He is devoted to work and occupies the isolated distinction in the army of never taking wine and as very rarely smoking.

The emperor's entourage concurs in the opinion that it would be better for his majesty if he would smoke less.

Those in intimate contact with him find, without his being really ill, plain signs of recurring nervous suffering. The court physicians have strongly advised him to cease the use of tobacco. The emperor persists in smoking a dozen huge cigars daily.

The Movements of a British Trading Vessel Interfered With.

New York, February 1.—The steamer Andes, British, Captain Evans, from Trinidad, January 24th, arrived here today, bringing as passengers the captain and crew of ten men of the British bark Lydia Peschan, seized by the Venezuelan government October 18th.

The captain reports that being sick and unconscious he was taken ashore in a small fishing vessel, to a hospital at Trinidad, and that while the bark was beating around in charge of the mate, she became short of water, and put into Margartia Island and before anchoring sent a boat ashore asking for water. About fifty soldiers rowed out in small boats, eight of whom were sent aboard the bark, took the mate and the second mate ashore and kept them, there, leaving no one on board who could take the vessel to sea. They supplied the bark with food and treated the men fairly well, but stripped the vessel of its sails and took the captain's clothes, watch and jewelry. November 9th the captain chartered the steamer Onwriel to go to Margartia Island, and tow the bark up but when they reached the island the authorities refused to give the vessel up, offering no cause whatever. On the 16th all the sailors were sent to La Guayra to the British consul. On the 22d, the captain again visited the vessel lin accordance with orders from the gevernor of Trini-

On the 22d, the captain again visited the vessel lin accordance with orders from the gevernor of Trinidad, and the Venezuelan consul there, but they still refused to give up the vessel. No English governor then ordered the captain to proceed to New York, as it would take at least three months to settle the matter. The bark was bound from Wilmington, N. C., to Trinidad with a load of yellow pine lumber.

FIFTEEN MILLION DOLLARS

CHICAGO, February 1.—The Local Paper prints the statement that Fred W. Peck, chairman of the financer committee, and Otto Young, chairman of the ways and means committee of the World's Columbian exposition, will make a report some time this nittee of the World's Columbian exposition, will make a report some time this week, that nothing less than $15,000,000 will meet the necessities of the exposition. At the utmost, but $10,000,000 will be at the disposal of the directory before May 1, 1893. That estimate is based on the supposition that every dollar of the popular subscription will be paid. How to meet the deficiency is the problem that must be solved by the directors. The situation is further complicated by the stubborn fact that no part of the revenue to be derived from the sale of city bonds can be used until $3,000,000 of popular subscription has been paid to the treasurer, Reberger. A member of the finance committee said: "The $360,000 now in the hands of the directory will soon be exhausted, when work on the buildings is commenced. Ten buildings that are to be built by the board of architects will cost $7,000,006, and, all the time we will be paying large amounts for the maintenance of the departments and for the sustaneance of representatives in foreign countries." sustaneance of representatives in foreign

I did not see the interview between Avant and Clements. If you can, send it to me; if not, give me the purport. Clements is a very unreliable man. At Macon, Clements denied that I or the Lancasters or Knight had anything to do with the murder, but he implicated Burch, the negro, and two other white men, both of whom testified against us, and I believe that statement is cor-rect.

Please write me often and send such papers as will give me the news. While I can't white often, still I can receive all mail, unless it should be some scheme to have me escape from here.

I am getting on well. I am private secretary to the chaplain, and I have a nice warm room in which to do my writing. Not half of my time is occupied. There is a fine library here and I read a great deal. There are 1,000 prisoners or more here. There is plenty to eat, bread, beef, hog meat, cabbage, coffee, tea, beans, Irish potatoes, turnips, etc. Have meat once a day, at dinner. There is a church on the grounds and there is Sunday school, prayer meeting and preaching each Sunday morning, at which all attend. There is a night school for those who wish to attend. We get up at 6 o'clock a. m., eat breakfast, then dine at 11:30 o'clock and supper at 4 o'clock p. m. At 5 o'clock all go to their cells, unless permitted to remain out until 9 o'clock, at which time all lights have to be put out. This gives four hours for reading.

Each man has plenty to eat and a good bed. Georgia should be ashamed of her penitentiary—it is a disgrace.

The wall embraces twenty-eight acress and is covered with factories, etc. Wright Lancaster and Clements are making brooms. John K. Lancaster and Knight are making buckles. All the officers are very kind. It is a democratic administration. Friend, etc., I. A. HALL, N. S. 1942, Ohio Penitentiary.

The Guests Have an Interesting Time of It. Loss, $50,000.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., February 1 .- [Special.] CHARLOTTE, A. C., February I.—[special.]
The fire which was discovered last night about 12 o'clock, in the basement of the Wilson Drug Company's store here, continued to rage until daybreak this morning, and tonight more than $50,000 dollars worth of property is in ashes. The building included what is known as the Belmont hotel, and now used as an annex to the Central, in which a large number of guests were stopping, and naturally a great panic was created. The scene can be better imagined that described. The guests of the Central were ready to move at a moment's notice, as the buildings were only divided by a twenty-foot alley. The telegraph office being near the burning building, the wires were disconnected and all was ready to move, as to all appearances it promised to be a large fire, and the dangers were increased by several explosions, the wind blowing a moderate gale from the south. One of the guests of the Belmont, a wealthy young lady, known as the Belmont hotel, and now used as who, at the time of the fire, was in the opera house, left diamonds in her room valued at from $500 to $1,000 dollars, offered a reward of $150 for their recovery, and a fireman braved the smoke and flames and earned the reward. But for the efficiency of the fire department, the loss would have been distressing and dis-astrous to Charlotte. The loss, as stated, is covered by insurance.

TROUBLE AT THE GALLOWAY MINES,

In Which It Is Alleged that a Number of Negroes Were Siain.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 1.—Reports were current here yesterday of an attack by white men at the Galloway mines on the negroes who had been put to work during the groes who had been put to work during the recent strike. Efforts were made by telegraph to secure confirmation of the reports proved futile. The only answer obtainable was that negro had been killed by a white man in self-defense, and that the reports were incorrect. It seems possible from later developments that the correspondents were intimidated. This morning Colonel Clark, of the Second regiment, received orders from Governor Jones to put fifty men of the local companies under arms in readiness to proceed to Carbon Hill, near Galloway mines. In the absence of Colonel Clark, Captain Randolph Peyton, of the Birmingham Rifles, assumed command, and twenty-five men from the Rifles and a like number from the Volunteers were assembled.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon a telegram was received from the governor ordering them to proceed to Carbon Hill. Not a word can be heard here as to the state of affairs at Carbon Hill, and no one knows on what information the governor is acting. Carbon Hill, is the setting.

ALICE COOPER IS SHY.

But Insists that the Dead Woman in Atlanta Is Not Lizzie Burnett. CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., February 1.—[Special.] AlicelCooper, demi-monde, at No. 8 Florence street, this city, says the woman killed on the Georgia Pacific near Atlanta Friday, was not Lizzie Burnett. She says Lizzie Burnett was a dark brunette, of medium size, about twenty-three years old and lived in the Cooper woman's bagnio about a year ago, She says that Lizzie Burnett was killed at Birmingham last spring; so she has been informed by several Birmingham soiled doves who have lived with her since. She has no positive knowledge, however that the Burnett woman was dead. Alice Cooper seemed to object to talking to your correspondent, either from a fear of saying too much or from a desire to keep her name out of the papers.

GEORGIA LEATHER Will Soon Add Another Feature to Chatta-nooga's Industries.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., February 1.—[Special.]—Fayerweather & Ladew, who own the large tannery in Chattanooga, the largest in the world, have just completed their branch tannery on the Chattanooga Southern railroad, in Walker county, Georgia, eight miles south of this city. The new tannery is built much like the one in Chattanooga, and will be increased in size as needed. It is replete with the very best machinery that can be secured for producing leather and the output will be very large. Within the past month an enormous amount of tan bark, aggregating $50,000 worth, has been delivered to the new tannery. The shipment will continue, and fully $100,000 worth will be secured. The tannery is a big enterprise for Walker county and north Georgia. nooga's Industries.

SHE WAS IN TROUBLE.

The Sad Suicide of a Young Lady Near

Guyton. GUYTON, Ga., February 1 .- [Special.]-News as reached Guyton that Miss Laura Rahn, of Savannah, who was visiting A. C. Morgan's family, near the Savannah river, in this county, committed suicide last night by means of a strong cord tightly drawn around her throat. No cause is assigned for the rash act. A half-written letter found in her room, addressed to her sister, indicated that she was in Will Be Tried on Monday. CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., February 1.-[Special.]—Jesse Frierson, the negro who so brutally murdered Officer D. C. Musgrove, brutally murdered Officer D. C. Musgrove, just before Christmas, will be placed on trial next Monday. The witnesses in the case have been subpœnaed to appear at the circuit court on this day.

The case has been well worked up, and there is no doubt but that Frierson will get the full punishment for his cold-blooded crime. A lynching of the negro was narrowly averted by Sheriff Skillorn the night of the murder, and unless justice is fully meted out to the black brute, the people will take the case into their own hands.

The Liquor Men Are Aroused.

Charlotte, N. C., February 1.—[Special.]—The liquor dealers of the state are considerably exercised over a movement they have discovered to change the existing law regulating the granting of licenses by boards of county commissioners. The movement was started by the county commissioners of New Hanover, who are trying, by circulars, to get all the boards of commissioners in the state to unite with them in petitioning the legislature to make the change. The liquor seller claim that the proposed change would place them at the mercy of third party boards all over the state, as the clause which now reads that on certain conditions county commissioners "shall issue licenses." has been changed to read, "may issue licenses." has been changed to read, "may issue licenses." Several other radical changes are proposed, and the scheme having already gained considerable headway, it is causing consternation among the liquor men. The Liquor Men Are Aroused.

Burned to Death.

GREENVILLE, S. C., February 1.—[Special.]—A horrible accident occurred yesterday evening on the place of W. L. Riddle, about four miles from Laurens Courthouse. A ten-year-old boy named John Owens, entered a cornerib about dusk, and was feeding some pigs from the rear end. Suddenly fire was discovered at the entrance, and before he could reach the door the flames had spread some to cut off his accepts. His screens attracted so as to cut off his escape. His screams attracted the attention of his mother, who was in a house near by, but before she could summon help the building was burned down, and the little fellow's partially consumed body was all that was taken out.

The Pet Stock Show.

GREENVILLE, S. C., February 1.—[Special.]—The first exhibition of the South Carolina pet stock and poultry show and the South Carolina Kennel Association ended here yesterday. While the attendance was not as large as was expected, owing tendance was not as ing. as was expected, wang to the excessive rains, the exhibition was a success and the exhibitors are very much gratified. The heavy track made it impossible to have the races and they have been postponed until next week, when the large number of celebrated flyers now here will make it very interesting for those who attend.

THE GREAT DIVINE STIRS THE MUL-

Never Such Scenes Before Within the Wall of the Great Hall-Many are Brought Repentance

NEW YORK, Feb. 1, 1891.-Wonderful scene are witnessed at The Christian Herald services in the Academy of Music at the close of Dr. Talmage's sermon. At the invitation of the preacher, hundreds of persons, moved by his stirring appeals, rise for prayers, and the or-chestra seats are soon filled by those seeking spiritual guidance. Among the recent converts was a son of a prominent minister of the gospel and personal friend of Dr. Talmage. Pass ng among them conversing with one and an-Christian Association, who come in response to an invitation from the Christian Herald, it having become a physical impossibility for Dr. Talmage to speak individually with the rapidly increasing number who desire personal re-ligious counsel. These are indeed solemn es, unprecedented within these walls. Not less than one thousand persons are said to have been lead by these services to enter on a Chrisrian life. The text of Dr. Talmage's sermon "One thing thou lackest." Mark 10: 21.

The young man of the text was a splendid

We fall in love with him at the first glance. He was amiable, and frank, and earneducated, and refined, and respect able, and moral, and vet he was not a Christian. And so Christ addresses him in the words that I have read to you: "One thing thou lackest." I suppose my text was no more appropriate to the young man of whom I have spoken than it is appropriate to a great ade of people in this audience. There are many things in which you are not lacking. For instance you are not lacking in a good home. It is perhaps, no more than an hour ago that you closed the door, returning to see whether it was well fastened, of one of the best homes in the city. The younger children of the house already asleep, the older ones, hearing your returning footsteps, will rush to the door to meet you. And in these winter evenings. the children at the stand with their lessons, the wife plying her needle, and you reading the book or the paper, you feel that you have a good home. Neither are you lacking in the refinements and courtesies of life. You understand the polite phraseology of invitation, regard and apology. You have an appropriate apparel. I shall wear no better dress at the wedding than when I come to the marriage of the King's Son. If I am well clothed on other occasions. I will be in religious audienco. However reckless I may be about my personal appearance at other times, when I come into a consecrated assemblage, I shall have on the best dress I have. We all understand the proprieties of everyday life and the proprieties of Sabbath life.

Neither are you lacking in worldly success, You have not made as much money as you would like to make, but you have an income. While other are false when they say they have no income or are making no money, you have never told that falsehood. You have had a livelihood or you have fallen upon old resour-ces, which is just the same thing, for God is just as good to us when he takes care of us by a surplus of the past as by present success. While there are thousands of men with hunger tearing at the throat with the strength of a t ger's paw, not one of you is hungry. Neither are you lacking in pleasant friendship. You have real good friends. If the scarlet fever should come tonight to your house, you know very well who would come in and sit up with the sick one; or, if death should come, you know who would come in and take your hand tight in their's with that peculiar grip which means "I'll stand by you," and after the life has fled from the loved one, take you by the arm and lead you into the next room, and while you are gone to Greenwood they would stay in the house and put aside the garments and the playthings that might bring to your mind too severely your great loss. Friends! You all Neither are you lacking in your admiration of the Christian religion. There is nothing that makes you so angry as to have a man ma-lign Christ. You get red in the face, and you say: "Sir, I want you to understand that though I am not myself a Christian, I don't like such things said as that in my store," and the man goes off, giving you a parting saluta-tion, but you hardly answer him. You are provoked beyond all bounds. Many of you have been supporters of religion and have given more to the cause of Christ than some who profess his faith. There is nothing that would please you more than to see your son or daughter standing at the altar of Christ, taking the vows of the Christian. It might be a little hard on you, and might make you ner-yous and agitated for a little while; but you would be man enough to say: "My child, that back by my example. I hope some day to join you." You believe all the doctrines of religyou." You believe all the doctrines of relig-ion. A man out yonder says "I am a sinner." You respond: "So am I." Some one says: "I believe Christ came to save the world. say so do I." Looking at your character, at your surroundings, I find a thousand things about which to congratulate you; and yet I must tell you in the love and fear of God, and with reference to my last account: "One thing with reference to my last account: "One thing thou lackest."

You need, my friends, in the first place the elements of happiness. Some day you feel wretched. You do not know what is the matter with you. You say: "I did not sleep last night. I think that must be the reason of my restlessness;" or "I have eaten something that did not agree with me, and I think that must be the reason." And you are unhappy. O my friends, happiness does not depend upon physical condition. Some of the happiest people I have ever known have been those who have been wrapped in consumption, or stung with neuralgia, or burning with the slow fire of some fever. I never shall forget one man in my with neuralgia, or burning with the slow fire of some fever. I never shall forget one man in my first parish, who, in excruciation of body, cried out: "Mr. Talmage, I forget all my pain in the love and joy of Jesus Christ. I can't think of my sufferings when I think of Christ." Why his face was illumined. There are young men in this house who would give testimony to show that there is no happiness outside of Christ, while there is great joy in his cervice. Christ, while there is great joy in his service There are young men who have not been Chris tians more than six months, who would up tonight, if I should ask them, and say in those ax month they have had more joy and satisfaction than in all the years of their frivsatisfaction than in all the years of their friv-olity and dissipation. Go to the door of that gin-shop tonight, and when the gang of young men come out, ask them whether they are happy. They laugh along the street, and they jeer, and they shout; but nobody has any idea that they are happy, I could call upon the aged men in this house that they are happy,

I could call upon the aged men in this house to give testimony. There aged men here who tried the world, and they tried religion, and are willing to testify on our side. It was not long ago that an aged man arose in a praying circle, and said: "Brethren, I lost my son just as he graduated from college, and it broke my heart; but I am glad now he is gone. He is at rest, escaped from all sorrow and from all trouble. And then, in 1887, I lost all my property, and you see I am getting old, and it is rather hard on me; but I am sure God will not let me suffer. He has not taken care of me for seventy-five years now to let me drop out of his hands." I went into the room of an aged man—his eye-sight nearly gone, his hearing nearly gone—and what do suppose he was talking about? The goodness of God and the joys of religion. He said: "I would like to go over and join my wife on the other side of the flood, and I am waiting until the Lord calls me. I am happy now. I shall be happy there." What is it that gave that aged man so much satisfaction and peace? Physical exuberance? No; it has all gone. Sunshine. He cannot hear them. It is the grace of God, that is brighter than sunshine and that is sweeter than music. If a harpist takes a harp and finds that all the strings are broken but one string he does not try to play upon it. Yet here I will show you an aged man, the strings of whose joy are all broken save one, and yet he thrums it with satisfaction, such melody, that the angels of God stop the swift stroke of their wings, and hover about the place until the music ceases. O religion's "ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace." And if you have not the satisfaction that is to be found in Jesus Christ, I must tell you, with ail the concentrated emphasis of my soul: "One thing thou lackest."

I remark again, that you lack the element of usefulness. Where is your business? You say it is No. 45 such a street, or No. 260 such a street, or No. 300 such a street. My friend immortal, your basiness is wherever there is a tear to be wiped away or a soul to be saved. You may, before coming to Christ, do a great many noble things. You take a loaf of bread to that starving man in the alley; but he wants many none tangs. To take a poar of oreat to that starving man in the alley; but he wants immortal bread. You take a pound of candles to that dark shanty. They want the light that springs from the throne of God, and you cannot take it because you have it not in your own heart. You know that the flight of an not take it because you have it not in your own heart. You know that the flight of an arrow depends very much upon the strength of the bow, and I have to tell you that the best bow that was ever made was made out of the cross of Christ; and when religion takes a soul and puts it on that, and pulls it back and lets it fl. every time it brings down a Saul or a Goliah. There are people here of a high social position, and large means, and cultivated minds, who, if they would come into the kingdom of God, would set the city on fire with religious awakening. Oh, hear you not the more than million voices of those in these two cities who are unconverted? Voices of those in these two cities who are dying in their sins? They want light. They want bread. They want Christ. They want heaven. Oh that the Lord would make you a flaming evangel. As for myself, I have sworn before high heaven that I will preach this gospel as well as I can, in all its fullness, until every fibre of my body, and every faculty of my mind, and every passion of preserved. Its exhausted. But we all have a every faculty of my mind, and every passion of my soul, is exhausted. But we all have my soul, is exhausted. But we all have a work to do. I cannot do your work. God points us out the place where we are to serve, and yet are there not people in this house who are thirty, forty, fifty and sixty years of age, and yet have not begun the great work for which they were created? With every worldly resistant.

Again, we lack she element of personal safe-ty. Where are those people who associated with you twenty years ago? Where are those people that, fifteen years ago, used to cross South Ferry or Fulton Ferry, with you, to New Walk down the street where you wer in business fifteen years ago, and see how al the signs have changed. Where are the peo-ple gone? How many of them are landed in eternity I cannot say, but many, many. I went to the village of my boyhood. The houses were all changed. I passed one house in which once resided a man who had lived an earnest, useful life, and is in glory now. In the next house a miser lived. He devoured widows houses, and spent his whole life in trying to make the world worse and worse. And he is one-the good man and the miser both gon to the same place. Ah, did they go to the same place? It is an infinite absurdity to suppose them both in the same place. If the miser had a harp, what tune did he play on it? O my had a harp, what tune didhé play on it? O my friends I commend to you this religion as the only personal safety. When you die where are you going to? When we leave all these scenes, upon what scenes will we enter? When we were upon shipboard, and we all felt that we must go the bottom, was I right in saying to the one next to me: "I wonder if we will reach heaven if we do go down tonight." Was I wise or unwise in asking that overtion? I ttell you that way is a feel who uestion? I tell you that man is a fool wh never thinks of the great future.

But I apply this subject to the aged—not many here—not many in any assemblage. People do not live to get old. That is the general rule. Here and there an aged man in the house. I tell you the truth. You have lived long enough in this world to know that it cannot satisfy an immortal nature. I must talk to you more reverentially than I do to these other people, while at the same time I speal other people, while at the same time I speak with great plainness. O, father of the weary step; O, mother, bent down under the ailments of life, has thy God ever forsaken thee? Through all these years, who has been your best friend? Seventy years of mercies! Seventy years of food and clothing! O, how many bright mornings! How many glorious evening hours you have seen! O, father, mother! God has been very good to you. Do you feel it? Some of you have children and grandchildren; the former cheered your young life, the latter Some of you have enlidren and grandchildren; the former cheered your young life, the latter twine your gray locks in their tiny fingers. Has all the goodness that God has been making pass before you produced no change in your feelings, and must it be said of you, notwithstanding all this: "One thing thou lackest?"

Oh, if you could only feel the hand of Christ smoothing the care out of wrinkled fees. moothing the cares out of wrinkled faces. Of you could only feel the warm arm of Christ eadying your tottering steps. I lift my voice and enough to break through the deafness of the ear while I cry out: "One thing thou lack-tt." It was an importunate appeal a young est." It was an importunate appear a young man made in a prayer-meeting when he rose up and said: "Do pray for my old father. He is seventy years of age and he don't love Christ." That father passed a few more steps on in life and then he went down. He never gave any intimation that he had chosen Jesus. It is a very hard thing for an old man to become a Christian. I know it is, It is so hard a thing that it cannot be done by any hymne. thing that it cannot be done by any human work; but God Almighty can do it by his omnipotent grace; he can bring you at the eleventh hour—at half-past eleven—at one minute of twelve he can bring you to the peace and the joys of the giorious Gospel.

I must make application of this subject, also, to those who are prospered. Have you, my friends, found that dollars and cents are no permanent consolation to the soul? You have large worldly resources but have you no treasures in heaven? Is an embroidered pillow all that you want to put your dying head on? You that you want to putyour aying head on? You have heard people all last week talk about earthly values. Hear a plain man talk about the heavenly. Do you not know it will be worse for you, O prospered man, if you reject Christ, and reject him finally—that it will be worse for you than those who had it hard in this world, because the contrast will make the discompliance when were appelling? As the this world, because the contrast will make the discomfiture so much more appalling? As the heart bounds for the water brooks, as the roe speeds down the hill-side, speed thou to Christ. "Escape for thy life, look not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the plain; escape to the mountain lest thou be consumed!"

I must rapke my application to exchange

I must make my application to another class of persons—the poor. When you cannot pay your rent when it is due, have you nobody but the landlord to talk to? When the flour has gone out of the barrel, and you have not ten cents with which to go to the bakery, and your children are tragging at your dreer forcement. cents with which to go to the bakery, and your children are tugging at your dress for something to eat, have you nothing but the world's charities to appeal to? When winter comes, and there are no coals, and the ash-barreis have no more cinders, who takes care of you? Have you nobody but the overseer of the poor? But I preach to you a poor man's Christ. If you do not have in the winter blankets enough to cover you in the night. I want to the leavest But I preach to you a poor man's Christ. If you do not have in the winter blankets enough to cover you in the night, I want to tell you of him who had not where to lay his head. If you lie on the bare floor, I want to tell you of Him who had for a pillow a hard cross, and whose foot-bath was the streaming blood of his own heart. O, you poor man! O, you poor woman! Jesus understands your case altogether. Talk it right out to Him tonight. Get down on your floor and say: "Lord Jesus Christ, thou wast poor and I am poor. Help me. Thou art rich now, and bring me up to thy riches!" Do you think God would cast you off? Will he? You might as well think that a mother would take the child that feeds on her breast and dash its life out, as to think that God would put aside roughly those who have fled to him for pity and compassion. Yea, the prophet says: "A woman may forget her sucking child, that she should not have compassion on the son of her womb, but I will not forget thee."

In you have ever been on the sea, you have been surprised on the first voyage to find there are so few sails in sight. Sometimes you go along two, three, four, five, six and seven days, and do not see a single sail; but when a vessel does come in sight, the sea glasses are lifted to the eye, the vessel is watched, and if it come very near, then the captini, through the trumpet, cries loudly across the [water: "Whither bound?" So you and I meet on this sea of life. We come and we go. Some of us have never met before. Some of us will never meet again, But I hail you across the sea, and with reference to the last great day, and with reference to the two great worlds, I cry across the water: "Whither bound? "I know what service that craft was made for, but hast "Whither bound? Whither bound? "I know what service that craft was made for, but hast thou thrown overboard the compass? Is there no helm to guide it? Is the ship at the mercy of the tempest? Is there no gun of distress booming through the storm? With priceless treasurers—with treasures aboard worth more than all the Indies—wilt thou never come up out of the trough of that sea? O, Lord God, lay hold of that man! Son of God, if thou wert ever needed anywhere, thou art needed here. There are so many sins to be pardoned. There are so many wounds to be healed. There are so many souls to be saved. Help, Jesus! Help, Holy Ghost! Help, ministering angels from the throne! Help, all sweet memories of the past! Help, all prayers for our future deliverance! O. that now, in this the accepted time and the day of salvation, you swould hear the voice of mercy and live. Taste and see that the Lord is gracious. In this closing moment of the service, when everything in the house is so favorable, when everything is so still, when God is so loving, and heaven is so near, drop your sins, and take Jesus. Do not cheat yourself out of heaven. Do not do that. God forbid that at the last, when it is too late to correct the mistake, a voice should rise from the pillow, or drop from the throne, uttering just four words—four sad, annihilating words: "One thing thou lackest."

If you pay money, you take a receipt. If you

"One thing thou lackest."

If you pay money, you take a receipt. If you buy land, you record the deed. Why? Because everything is so uncertain, you want it down in black and white, you say. For a house and lot twenty-five feet Iront by one hundred feet deep, all security; but for a soul, vast as eternity, nothing, nothing! If some man or woman, standing in some of these aisles, should drop down, where would you go to? Which is your destiny? Snpposen man is prepared for the future world, what difference does it make to him whether he goes to his home today or goes into glory? Only this difference; if he dies he is better off. Where he had one joy on earth, he will have a million in heaven. if he dies he is better off. Where he had one joy on earth, he will have a million in heaven. When he has a small sphere here, he will have a grand sphere there. Perhaps it would cost you sixty, or one hundred, or one hundred and tifty dollars to have your physical life insured, and yet free of charge, I offer you insurance on your immortal life, payable, not at your decease, but now, and tomorrow, and every day and always.

My hope in Christ is not so bright as many Christians, I know; but I would not give it up for the whole universe, in one cash payment, if it were offered me. It has been so much comfort to me in time of trouble, it has been so much strength to me when I have been assailed, it has been so much rest to me when I have been perplexed, and it is around my heart such an encasament of satisfaction and blear such an encasement of satisfaction and bless-edness that I can stand here before God. and say: Take away my health, take away my life, take everything rather than rob me of this hope, this plain, simple hope which I have in Jesus Christ, my Lord. I must have this robe when the last chill strikes through me. I must the blast that comes up from the cold Jordan.
I must have this sword with which to fight my way through all those foes on my way heaven-ward. When I was in London I saw there the wonderful armor of Henry VIII, and Edward III. And yet I have to tell you that there is nothing in chain mail or brass plate, or gaunt-let, or halberd, that makes a man so safe as the armor in which the Lord God clothes his dear children. Others is a sefect in religious You armor in which the Lord God clothes his dear children. O, there is a safety in religion. You will ride down all your foes. Look out for that man who has the strength of the Lord God with him. In olden time the horsemen used to ride into battle with lifted lances, and used to ride into battle with lifted lances, and the enemy fled the field. The Lord on the white horse of victory, and with lifted lances of Divine strength, rides into the battle and down goes the spiritual foe; while the victor shouts the triumph through the Lord Jesus Christ. As a matter of personal safety, my dear friends, you must have this religion.

I apply my subject to several classes of people before me. First, to that great multitude of young people in this house. Some of these young men are in boarding houses. They have but few social advantages. They think that no one cares for their souls. Many of them are on small salaries, and they are cramped and bothered perpetually, and sometimes their heart fails them. Young man, tonight, at your bedroom door on the third floor, you will hear a knocking. It will be the hand of Jesus Christ, the young man's friend, saying: "O, Christ, the young man's friend, saying: "O, young man, let me come in; I will help thee, I will deliver thee." Take the Bible out of the trunk, if it has been hidden away. If you have not the courage to lay it on the shelf or table, take that Bible that was given to you by some loved one, take it out of the trunk and lay it down on the bottom of the chair, then kneel down beside it, and read and pray, and pray and read, until all your disturbance is gone, and you feel that peace which neither earth nor hell can robyou of. That is the issue that is being agitated in the

The discordant scenes of a prohibition election may be forced upon the people of this county within a few months. And again they

For six years Clarke county has been dry under a special act. The general local option law requires that one-tenth of the voters of a ounty sign a petition to the ordinary of the county to secure an election on the question in Clarke county, however, a majority of the oters is required.

The bill introduced by Hon.
William J. Morton in the last general assembly to put the county under local option law failed to pass, and now the antis are making an effort to get up a petition to whether they can get the signatures of a majority of the voters of the county attached to their petition remains to be seen. They are working the matter for all it is worth and confidently claim that they will be successful.

On the other hand, the prohibitionists claim that they will fail in their effort to secure the petition, but if they should get it both sides will put up a stubborn fight.

The antis are determined to show a strong front in the matter, while the prohibitionists will fight every movement to the last ditch.

The probabitionists are in and it will be mighty hard to oust them from a position they have held successfully for it years.

A NEW RAILROAD That Will Be of Great Benefit to Athens if Built.

ATHENS, Ga., February 1.—[Special.]—The prospect of building the railroad from Carnes-ville to Toccoa is a bright one. The road is already graded for some distance, and the necessary work would not be very grea to put it through to Toccoa.

The citizens of Carnesville are in dead earnest, and are moving in the matter. They want the road and are willing to do their share towards getting it. Then, if it is built, it will put Athens in direct communication with a good receiver of the computers and herether. good section of the country, and hence, the road will probably receive aid from Athens. The Richmond and Danville system, it is rumored, will lend a helping hand. At any rate it looks like the road will be

DEATHS IN GEORGIA.

THE NOTED CAREER OF A GILMER Other Aged Citizens Who Survive Him-The

Other Deaths. ELLIJAY, Ga., February 1.—[Special.]—Mr. Osborn Holt, one of the oldest and most highly ed citizens of Gilmer county, died las night. Mr. Holt was nearly eighty-five years old, and was a remarkable man in many respects. He was a man of winning address and excellent judgment. His mind was very clear, even in advanced age, and in his last illness. He came to this county in 1835, two before the Cherokee Indians were renoved. He could tell many interesting stories

The writer once heard Mr. Holt tell of the scarcity of money in this section during the financial panies which occurred in 1837 and 1845. He said he had seen good milk cows sell for 60 cents in those years. Mr. Holt moved to Turniptown valley, in this county, in 1837. Here he purchased several hundred acres of fine farming and mineral land for about $1,900, which he had contracted to some northern cap italists, a short time ago, for $16,000, after reerving his home and a certain part of the land. This farm is underlaid with marble of three colors, and on the eastern part of it there is a greatest abundance of fine iron ore. This same iron was successfully worked into horse shoe nails, gun barrels and other articles dur-

Mr. Holt was the father of eighteen children, thirteen of whom are still living, and his grandchildren and great-grandchildren are very many. By the death of Mr. Holt Gilmer county loses one of its oldest land marks and one of its cleverest men. B. Quillian, Hon. Joseph Picket, now eighty-six years of age, Hon. Coke A. Ellington and Mr. William Banks, the latter being ninety-three years old, hale and hearty and able to ride to town and to attend to business generally. Mr. Banks was married two years ago, at the age of ninetyone years.

A CURIOUS CASE About Nine Cattle Which Had Strings

Around Their Necks.

ELBERTON, Ga., February 1.—[Special.]—
An interesting case was disposed of in Elbert county court. Mr. L. J. Melson, manager of the Elberton oil mills, and Mr. E. R. Kormeagel, superintendent of the same, were prosecuted for filegally impounding cattle. The evidence showed that they kept a large number of cattle at the mill, and that they were changing every day; that a gentleman had taken up nine head of cattle in town and had notified the oil mill authorities, who sent and got them, supposing they had escaped from their pens. Not knowing their own cattle, they tied strings on the necks of this nine head so they could be identified, but did not advertise them as estrays. The owner identified them and got them, and then prosecuted the oil mill men for not advertising them. After elaborate argument, the court held that they were not guilty. The high standing of the parties caused much interest to be taken in the case. Around Their Necks.

THE WORKING MAN.

WHAT IS GOING ON IN THE BANKS OF ORGANIZED LAROR The Declaration of Principles of the Atlanta Federation of Trades-National Association of Machinists-Glass Blowers. The several labor organizations of the city are in a prosperous and growing condition.

Not since the decadence of the Knights of Labor several years ago has there been as much interest taken in organized labor in Atlanta as at present.

Preliminary steps are now being taken to form a branch of the American Federation of Trades in this city, to be known as the Atlanta Federation of Trades. Several meetings of the different trades have taken place, and in a short time all arrangements will be perfected.

The carpenerts and joiners, glass-blowers, trunk-makers, tailors, machinery and stove moulders, printers and machinists have already joined the ranks of the federation. Within the next few weeks the cigar-makers, brick masons, stone-cutters, plumbers, and plasterers, and perhaps others will also enroll themselves under the banner of the Atlanta

The organization starts out with a member ship of about 600, but when all the trades are enroiled the order will have a list of members of about double that. The Atlanta branch, while it has not yet applied for a charter from the American Federation, will shortly be in a working condition; and, in order to give the Atlanta council an opportunity to get on its feet, before commencing to pay heavy dues, the charter will not be asked for until the expiration of some five or six months. By that ime the Atlanta branch will be able to stand alone, and a charter will then be applied for Mr. George W. Morgan has been elected president, and it is his energy and ability as an organizer that the Atlanta Federation of Trades owes its inception and the project successfully carried to completion

Mr. Morgon was seen by a Constitution reporter and asked about the principles and purposes of the federation.

"The history of the wage-workers," began Mr. Morgan, "of this and all other countries has been the record of constant struggle against oppression. Their trouble has arisen almost entirely from a lack of unity and confidence in each other as workers and a misunderstanding of the true causes of oppresion. Unity, guided by intelligence, is a source of strength that can withstand all attacks, but without intelligent organization we cannot acquire that discipline which will enable us to ct together, concentrate our strength and direct our efforts toward the desired end and also acquire that patience which enables us to wait for results.

"Past experience has demonstrated the impossibility of workingmen, by individual appeals or demands, to secure just compensation strates that the indifference of the working gent workmen to reform the abuses we justly complain of can only be traced to ignorance. Therefore, for the purpose of attaining the objects of our organization and promoting unity of sentiment and action among the wage-workers of this city and vicinity and joining them closely together for mutual protection, so that each and every member of the several organizations may be benefited thereby, the Atlanta Federation of Trades has been organ-

"Who are eligible to membership? Can the farmer and lawyer join your order, as in the Farmers' Alliance?"

"No. The federation consists of delegations from such regular trades organizations of At-lanta and vicinity as shall endorse our consti-tution and by-laws, and pledge themselves to use means within their power the benefit that will accrue through intelligent co-operation with each other on all matters affecting the inter ests of labor. As a means to this end we will endeavor to lift our occupations from the degrading position of accepting a bare sustenance as a reward for a life of honest toil and try to elevate labor to a plane of higher respecta-

"Will you affiliate as a body with any political party, or take an active part in the city

"We will not. While we are opposed to entering any political party en masse, we deen it our duty to use our influence with the law-making power when necessary to secure reforms in prison labor and the enactment of such other laws as may from time to time be beneficial to organized labor."
"What stand do you take on the eight-hour movement?"

"We are unanimously in favor of it; also the

"We are unanimously in favor of it; also the free and compulsory education of children; regulation of the employment of women and children; inspection of factories and workshops; measures of sanitary reform; abolition of the contract system of convict labor, and the appointment of factory and building inspectors chosen from the labor organizations of this state."

what manner will the federation settle disputes between employe and employer? Will it be an advocate of strikes and lockouts, or will it resort to more peaceful methods of procedure?"

"We will encourage the principle of arbitration whenever practicable. The executive committee will adjust all difficulties between the different trades unions and their employers when requested to do so by the union involved. The federation, however, will not have the power to settle any difficulty finally unless such power is granted by the union at issue with its employers.

"And last, but not least," concluded Mr.

Morgan, "we will endeavor to the best of our ability to educate our members by the dissem-ination of useful information by means of lectures, pamphlets and industrial literature. Social entertainments, such as balls, picnics, etc., under the auspices of the federation, will also be given."

The Machinists.

The National Association of Machinists had its inception in Atlanta three years ago in May. From a small beginning it has grown in a wonderful manner until now it is represented in every city of prominence in the United States and Canada.

The parent lodge first met in the Good Tem-

The parent lodge first met in the Good Tem-plars' hall on Alabama street, but the growth of the order was so phenomenal that the lodge room had soon to be funoved the the Kinghtsof Py-thias hall, where they still have their quarters. Mr. Mike Riley, assistant forenan at the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia shops, is one of the leading machinists to whom the order is greatly indebted for its rapid spread and influence.

None but first class machinists are admitted

None but first class machinists are admitted to membership, and drunkenness or dissipation of any sort entails expulsion from the order. The result is that the association is comprised only of skilled workmen and intelligent and gentlemanly fellows.

The presentofficers are J. A. Callahan, master machinist; H. F. Garrett, treasurer; S. A. Whitehurst, secretary; E. F. Adams, conductor, and John Homer, inside guard.

At their meetings, which are "lid twice a month, mechanical problems of alkinds are proposed and their solution worked out in the lodge room for the benefit of the members. Indeed, the educational feature enters largely into their constitution and by-laws, it being one of the principal objects of the association.

one of the principal objects of the association.

The aims and objects of the National Association of Machinists are to build up and refine the educational and social qualities of machinists and their rising generation, and to more thoroughly instruct them in the increasing improvements in their business; to adopt and carry into effect a uniform and effective plan for finding employment for the masses of brother machinists who are spending their earnings in searching for work. To raise a fund by contribution from its members for the purpose of railsving the distressed, the sick and as flicted that may be among them. The establishment of a legal appenticeship system of four years, and the settlement of all grievances by arbitration. They also denounce all attempts to antagonize the interests of labor and capital.

The association publishes a monthly periodical, The National Association of Machinists, in which the above principles are fully set forth. A general resume of all trade news of interest to machinists generally is also given. Mr. Jim Lynch, past master machinist, better known as "War Correspondent," and "Primrose," is the Atlanta correspondent of The Machinist, and the "boys" take this manner of thanking him for his timely, interesting and perspicuous paper, in a recent number of the journal, on "The Possibility and Probability of Running a Steam Engine by Horse Power." nning a Steam Engine by Horse Power

The Tailors' Union

The Tailors' Union

The Tailors' Union is forty strong and meets twice a month. All of the principal merchant tailor stores, with one or two exceptions, in the city employ union men, and from the present outlook will continue to do so. Tailors are proverbial for their quietness and inoffensiveness, and this no doubt is the reason the union has had but a small amount of trouble with their amployment. small amount of trouble with their employers and the public so seldom hears of them. The last difficulty the union had was with the firm of Miller & Collins.

The trouble originated over the cutter and anager. All union men were discharged and it was made a non-union shop. Owing, however, to the efforts of Mr. McHugh, the cutter and manager, the proprietors were induced to once more unionize the shop.

The Green Glass Blowers.

The Green Glass Blowers and the American The Green Glass Blowers and the American Flint Glass Blowers are two separate and dis-tinct organizations, but in their workings and the control of a very similar nature. They objects are of a very similar nature. They have a combined membership in Atlanta of about forty, but in the United States and Canada they are two of the strongest labor organizations known.

Their object is to maintain an equitable scale of wares in which was the strongest and the strongest and the strongest in the strongest in

Their object is to maintain an equitable scale of wages, in which they are very successful. They believe in arbitration as a means of settlement of all labor disputes which directly concern them, but if arbitration fails they are always ready to have recoffise to strikes. They are two of the few orders which have it in their power to enforce a strict system of apprenticeship. The apprentice, before he becomes a full-blown glass blower, has to serve a term of five years in one factory. The number of apprentices each factory can employ is of apprentices each factory can employ is graduated according to the number of men employed, one apprentice being allowed to each twenty men or fraction thereof.

The Engineers.
The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which number about 250 members in the city, meets every Sunday. New applications are coming in constantly, which are acted upon at their regular weekly meetings. The brotherhood has stood alone for so many years that it has become one of their fixed principles to amalgamate with no other labor organization.

The engineers were so pleased with their first reception in Atlanta that they have decided to again hold their national convention here, which assembles in May, 1892.

here, which assembles in May, 1892. Railway Conductors.

The Order of Railway Conductors is one of the oldest and strongest railroad societies in existence. The insurance department of the order is popular and efficient, over $1,000,000 having been paid in benefits to the widows and orphans of its members since its inception. The loss of a limb or total disability on part of a member entitles him to a $2,500 benefit. The order in Atlanta is strong and growing, now having a membership of something like 175. The national convention meets this year

175. The national convention meets this year the second Tuesday in May at St. Louis, and of course the Gate City of the South will be well represented at the meeting.

Two other strong organizations are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Brotherhood of Brakemen. The former is almost identical with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen.

Some of the Others.

Some of the Others.

Some three years ago an attempt was made to form attrunk-makers' union, but the effort fell through, and nothing more was heard of it until three or four months ago, when an organization was perfected. It is now in full running order, has a membership of some forty or fifty, and holds its meetings weekly. The aim of the association is to maintain wages and elevate the trade generally. So far as can be learned by its members, it is the only organization of its kind in the south. The typographical union is one of the strongest and most influential trades unions in the city. Its meetings are held monthly, and are well attended. The international convention, held here in June last, gave a renewed impetus and interest tended. The international convention, held here in June last, gave a renewed impetus and interest to the craft all over the south. Its aim is the elevation of the workman and the maintenance of wages. The craft in Atlanta numbers about 150 men, and is growing.

The cigar makers, while they have no union in this city, and for that matter none in Georgia, are all members, with but few exceptions, of organizations in other states. The nearest union is at Chattanooga. The advisability of organizing in Georgia, with headquarters in Atlanta, however, is being discussed by those interested, and the near future may see the union on its feet.

Compared with some four or five years ago, the ranks of the Knights of Labor have diminished wonderfully. Their history is that of all labor or-wonderfully. Their history is that of all labor organizations which have mixed politics with labor. Four years ago they had things in Atlanta pretty much their own way—with a membership up in the thousands and fourteen assemblies. The fourteen assemblies have dwindled down until but five now remain, with a few hundred members where once they had thousands.

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners is about two years old in Atlanta, and has on its roster some seventy-five names.

The local unions are pledged to do all in their power to bring about reforms in their trade. They want weekly pay, a laborer's holiday, favor the eight-hour law, and an amicable adjustment of all labor troubles—that directly concern them—when possibls. Laws making a mechanic's ien the first mortgage on real estate to secure a laborer's wages first, and material second, are also desired. They are opposed to the system of grading wages, and hold that the plan of fixing a minimum price for a day's work is the safest and best.

No. 273 local, of the Iron Moulders' Union of North America, is just one year old. Their numis small, as there is but one stove factory in the city. They take great interest though in their meetings, which are held twice a month, and a full attendance of the thirty members who comprise order is almost always had. Their object is osustan wages. Machinery Moulders' Union, No. 153, was organized on the 22d of June. 1889. It is a subordinate lodge of the Iron Moulders' Union of North America. Their aims and objects are the social, moral and financial elevation of its members, also the protection of the trade and the assistance of those of the organization who may be in distress. It pays a weekly and death benefit. No. 153 is about fifty strong. In July, 1892, their next convention will be held in Chicago, which convenes once every two years. vention will be held in Chicago, which convenes once every two years.

Just a Minute.

We just want to say, that the trade we are enjoying on our Rijamo coffee is wonderful. The Rijamo is a combination coffee, roasted fresh every few days from the very best selected coffee beau, and its equal cannot be found in the country. We have been selling it for four years, and all who have tried it pronounce it unrivaled in aroma and flavor. Try a dollar's worth of our Rijamo coffee

Now, good bread—good baead. Bread is the staff of life, and, to have good bread, you must have good flour. Have you ever tried the Regal have good flour. Have you ever tried the Regal Patent flour? If not, try one sack or barrel; it is the finest and purest flour that can be made. For pastry, biscuits or light-bread, it is unexceiled.

We will also save you money on canned goods. Our standard California peaches, pears, white cherries and apricots are going fast at the very low price we have put on them. Just think of these goods at $3.50 per dozen.

All of the fruit crops were a failure last year, but we bought early in the season, and are prepared to offer our customers bargains in them.

MURDER MYSTERIES

STILL SEEM TO BE CORNERED IN

Lobby in Montgomery—Alabama's Scientific Society.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., February 1 .- [Special.] Three more murder mysteries have been added to the criminal record of this county this week. In addition to these there have several homicides, attempts at murder and other less important crimes. In consequence there has been a general revival of business of all kinds, for it is a well-established fact that when there are no crimes in this city business is dull. When a wave of crime rolls over the city there is a general revival of business. Murders, robberies and suicides always mean flush times here.

Two of the murder mysteries of the week were out in the country, and they will likely remain mysteries to the end of time. It seems that people have a peculiar fondness for coming here, losing their identity and getting murdered in some out of the way place, where their bodies often lie for weeks before they are discovered.

The present legislature is giving the people of this city no little trouble and worry, and if it remains in session much longer it would be a good idea for Birmingham to keep a standing lobby at Montgomery. The legislature is re garded as somewhat erratic, and liable to do almost anything in the way of law-making at a moment's notice. Those who are especially interested in legislation sleep with one eye open and looking in the direction of Montgomery. The other day a liquor license bill was introduced which, if passed, would have meant prohibition for this city. A a big lobby hurried down to see about it and this county was exempted from the operations of the bill. The bill in which the most interest it felt now is one to repeal the present garnishment laws of the state. Mass meeting have been been held here during the week and workers for and against the bill have been sent to Montgomery in large numbers. All the labor organizations are working hard for the bill, while the retail merchants, the magistrates and their constables are working equally hard against it.

The Scientific Society of Alabama held a two days' meeting in this city this week and passed a resolution asking the legislature to appropriate $39,000 to complete a geographical survey of the state and appointed a committee to urge the passage of the bill. The legislature, however, has already refused to appropriate $10,000 a year for the purpose.

The boomers and land owners of the mineral district are not pleased with the attitude of the legislature on the question of making an appropriation for a state exhibit at the world's fair. It looks like there will be no appropriation and that means no exhibit. The people of this section are not in favor of mixing politics and sentiment with the business of bringing more capital to this section for investment. They think an exhibit should be made at the fair regardless of the force bill. If the legislature takes no further action on the matter an effect will be made here to reite means.

an effort will be made here to raise money by subscription and make an exhibit any way, but there is little prospect of raising enough money that way to do any good.

The new county jail, built of stone and iron and surrounded by a high stone fence, was considered impregnable until a few days ago, when Sheriff Smith discovered that three of the most dangerous prisoners had sawed their way to liberty and were only waiting until darkness came again to leave. They had been assisted from the outside by a former prisoner, darkness came again to leave. They had been assisted from the outside by a former prisoner, who had arranged the plot with those inside before he was turned out. The man who planned the escape, and was to furnish money for all of them to get away from the city when they got out, was Charles T. Cole, the forger. Cole came time age and represented himself as was Charles T. Cole, the forger. Cole came here some time ago and represented himself as a wealthy young business man from Nashville. He was going to make large investments here, he said, and he soon made many friends. Finally he succeeded in getting a forged check for $1,500 cashed, and started to leave town by the first train. He was caught and the money recovered. He then tried hard to beg off from prosecution, claiming it was his first offense. Since Cole has been in jail his record has been looked up, and he proves to be one of the boldest and most successful forgers who ever operated in this country. At Denver he obtained $40,000, at Leadville and other westen towns smaller amounts. At westen towns smaller amounts. At Middlesborough, Ky., he hit the banks for $10,000 in cash. At Philadelphia he secured a few thousand, and he operated as far west as Seattle, and the most remarkable part of his record is that he never failed to get one of his forged checks cashed wherever he tried. So far as has been learned, this is the first time he has been arrested, although his operations extend over a period of two years, and large rewards have been offered for him and large rewards have been differed for him at several places. He used only New York exchange. In some way he would get pos-session of the blank drrfts of some bank on their New York correspondent, and, filling out one, he would forge the name of the cashier

The habeas corpus proceedings of Lawyer Young, of Chattanooga, against his wife, to obtain the custody of their three-year-old child, were concluded this week and Mrs. Young was allowed to keep the child. She recently left her husband on account of his claims that his wife's relatives induced her to leave him and broke up a happy home. Mrs. Young's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt, formerly lived at Dalton, Ga., and it was there she met and married Young some five years ago.

The official report of the population of Alabama, recently issued by the census office, gives the number of Chinamen in the state as forty. There are between fifty and sixty as forty. There are between fifty and sixty Chinese in this city alone, and a number in Mobile, Montgomery, Selma, Anniston and other places. True they cannot vote, but it is suggested that if the census is so far wrong on the Chinese population, what evidence is there that it may not be equally erroneous as to the white population of the state? If proportionate errors were made in the count of the other inhabitants of this city, it would make a difference of 15,000 or 20,000 in the population.

A Tribute to Gorman.

The Hon. Chauncey F. Black, who has in herited the aggressive genius and democracy of his distinguished father, the late Judge Jere Black, pays a high and yet a deserved compliment to the qualities of leadership displayed in the fight against the force bill. After describing anew the partisan purposes of the bill. Mr. Black goes on to say:

Among those entitled to the unbounded grati tude of the American people for the preservation of their institutions from this deadly assault of their institutions from this deadly assault stands easily first Arthur P. Gorman. With him and around him, through all the vicissitudes of an arduous contest almost unexampled in parlia history, were the entire den It is little to say, is equal to that of any other period in the history of the senate. Among them period in the listory of the senance. I have a state of the state of t the leader is to cast no reflection upon his ass ciates or to detract in the least from the hono which belongs to each of them. He was their leader because they made him so, and it is to their peculiar credit that they did. In all the long and heroic struggle they did nothing wiser than this. As chairman of the caucus, Senator Gorman was the official manager on the democratic side, and the record he has made as such will stand no only to his own immortal honor. but to that of who, having first placed him where his talents and discretion were given their proper scope, followed him with voluntary steadiness and enlightened discipline. From first to las there was not a single break or misstep. From the beginning of the session to the unexpected and brilliant triumph of Monday Mr. Gorman committed no single error and incurred not a word of adverse criticism from any quarter.

There is absolutely no parallel to this case in the history of England or America—a man leading in a struggle vital to the liberties and interests of the whole people, involving possibly the very existence of a political party, the struggle extending through many weeks with varying fortunes and chances, and this man trusted and commended with absolute unanimity at every turn, and accorded the full measure of credit for his conduct at the end without a solitary dissenting voice! Not Gladstone nor Parnell in Great Britain; not even Randall in the great conflict of the forty-third congress, and certainly not any one of the democratic leaders since in the hous of representatives, has contributed a page so fair and undisputed as this to the annals of English speaking freemen. It need not be said that none but Mr. Gorman could have accomplished this. It requires only to be repeated that Mr. Gorman did mplish it, and that as a mere personal syement it is without example in the parliamentary history of our race. This is high praise. Indeed, coming from the distinguished source it does, it is the highest praise that has ever been bestowed on a political leader, and yet every word of it is deserved. Mr. Black makes a comparison between the victory won by Mr. Gorman and that won by Mr. Randall in the house some years ago. Mr. Randall's victory was a great one, but it depended more on his knowledge of parliamentary law than it did on the generalship, the prudence, and the plendid tact displayed by Mr. Gorman. Everything that Mr. Black says about this new leader will be heartily endorsed by the people of the country.

Mr. Gorman has shown once again, as Mr. Randall showed, that, under capable leadership, a minority can be made almost as powerful as a majority, certainly every whit as powerful when it comes to standing between the people and vicious legislation. The achievements of Mr. Gorman show also the great lack of leadership in the house since Mr. Randall was flouted by some of the doctrinaires, in the face of his great services to the party, and his incomparable usefulness as a leader, the democrats in the house have had no one to lead them, and the result has been that the minority has struggled along somewhat aimlessly. It is a great pity that there is not a Gorman or a Randall to lead this little band of democrats. With such a leader, the silver bill would be sent to Mr. Harrison, and that ridiculous person would be compelled to sign his political death warrant in one way or an-

Cotton Supply and Consumption in Europe.

Mr. Ellison's "Annual Review of the Cotton Trade for the Year 1890" was issued in Liverpool last Thursday, and covers the statistics of supply and consumption. The main points have been received by The New York Financial Chronicle by cable. There has been a considerable expansion cotton manufacture during the year. It will be noticed that the total consumption of Great Britain has been 4,141,000 bales of the average weight of 400 pounds, and the increase over 1889 is 316,000 bales. On the contiment the consumption has been 4,381,000 bales, which, compared with the previous year, records a gain of 260,000 bales. The surplus stocks at the mills at the close of the year were 111,000 bales, of 400 pounds, greater than at the end of 1889, and the visible supply shows an augmentation of about 200,000 bales of ordinary weights. During the past decade the consumption in Great Britain has been augmented only about 20% per cent, but that on the continent the increase during the like period has been over 57 per cent; in other words, the difference in favor of Great Britain ten years ago was 652,000 bales, whereas now the continent leads by 240,000 bales.

The year's business on the whole has been very satisfactory, and this is particularly true in the spinning department. The Chronicle's cable states that ninety mills in Oldham district exibit a profit for 1890 of 376,041, or £4,178 per mile, against £220,-587 by 86 mills in 1889, or £2,565 per mill. nore, at no time in the past seven ers has spinning been so profitable as in

The weekly consumption is now 171,000 les, of 400 pounds each, against 157,000 sales of like weights at the corresponding e last year. The total spinners' stocks breat Britain and on the continent have

In making up his estimates of supply and consumption, Mr. Ellison bases his figures on an American crop of 8,000,000 bales. For the United States and Canada he allows 2,700,000 bales, or about 200,000 bales more than the consumption of 1889-90, leaving available for shipment to Europe 5,300,000 bales. From East India 1,560,000 bales are expected, and the probable import from Egypt is placed at 510,000 bales. The other Mediterranean supplies, it is believed, will reach 30,000 bales, and the imports from Brazil, the West Indies, etc., are estimated at 200,000 bales.

A New Era in Politics.

There is something more than coincidence in the fact that the force bill was championed by one of the oldest senators and received its death blow from the youngest member of that body. These two men are typical of past and present sentiment. Hoar pelongs to and represents the expiring spirit of sectional hate, while Wolcott belongs to and represents the spirit of the present.

When the force bill was first set aside Mr. Hoar was credited with saying, "That means death to the republican party." The New York Evening Post thinks Mr. Hoar is correct, so far as the fate of the republican party, as an organization based upon the slavery issue, is concerned. "Men are elected speakers and senators who call themselves republicans," says The New York Times, "but they are not republicans as Mr. Hoar and other survivors of a disappearing generation understand republicanism. The force bill was the last logical attempt which could ever be made to maintain the republican party as an organization based upon the slavery issue. The rejection of that measure under the lead of the youngest republican senator, and with the hearty approval of the great majority of the younger men in the organization throughout the country, means that the new political generation, which has grown up since the abolition of slavery, and which looks toward the future instead of the past, has come into control of the nation.'

A striking proof of this remark was the overwhelming majority in the Pennsylvania legislature against the second reading of the resolution censuring Senator Cameron for voting against the force bill.

A still more striking proof, and one which has something to do with the attitude of republican senators, is the ominous sound which came from the farmers last November. There was not an allianceman on the stump last fall who did not denounce the purveyers of sectionalism, and every voice that came from the masses was against it. It is only the politicians, bound up in the traditions of the past, who hold to the old leading strings.

When this old issue is dead and buried: when the era of hate shall have passed away. may we not hope for some real statesmanship? There are plenty of new issues to engage our attention. Economic questions, the greatest that ever confronted the country, are waiting for solution. Far reaching causes of distress and discontent must b removed or they will lead to disaster. Now and then the impatient masses give out sounds ominous of revolution. The farmers have been advised to "quit raising corn and go to raising hell." Perhaps Mr. Ingalls thinks they have already done so; but however disastrous the farmers' movement may have been for certain politicians, the past is barely a suggestion of what will be if the government is not administered more for the masses and less for favored classes.

It is said that circumstances make men and that humanity never fails to rise to the necessities of the time. If this is true, we may safely conclude that we are about to enter upon an era of real statesmanship; the time has come when it is a necessity. The pressure of great social problems is getting terrible, and the questions are so serious that pessimists are beginning once more to predict the failure of republican government. Plutocracy on the one hand and communism on the other, stand like Scylla and Charybdis on each side of our course, and in avoiding either, we are in danger of being dashed against the other. The time for child's play has past. Politicians must stand up like men and meet the present. Heretofore money and intrigue have been passports to almost any office, but now the people are aroused, and they want men in high places. On every breeze that comes from the cornfields, you can hear the demand for a leader, and every ring of the anvil is a call for God to teach people to vote as they pray.

"In every country governed by the people," said Dr. Hawthorne, "each man is responsi-ble to God for his vote; and every virtuous and pure woman is interested in having good laws. If 100 men rob a bank, each man is responsible-not for one-hundreth part of a rob bery-but for robbery. So with a man's responsibility in the matter of casting his vote. LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

WASHINGTON, Ga., January 30 .- Editor Constitution: From the public prints, I see that the trustees of the Girls' Industrial school met upon the 23d of this month to elect a head to that school, but finally put the election off to February 12th. Also from some account of their meeting, I perceive that they have had no other idea than to elect a man to fill the place, and I will youture claims of some two gentlemen.

Now permit me to say a few words about the filling of this office. I will begin by saying that I have not an idea who the candidates are. Nor am I at all interested in any man or woman getting it. I do not want it; have not the executive ability needed for: lity needed for it.

Likewise, I think the interest of the pubwomen is the one thing to be ted in this matter. The office was not created for the benefit of anybody who coul or woman in the state fully qualified to fill it without visiting similar institutions. Perhaps some of these candidates have done this already. But so much present the state of the state But so much preparation as this implies could be made still. The head of the institution does not need the full knowledge of the experts who should fill the chairs.

Having made this preamble, I wish to ask why is it taken for granted, as it seems to be, that a man must fill it. The chief thing needed in this case is executive ability and profound interest in the subject. Now, I think there are women in the state quite as fit to fill this place as any man who

the subject. Now, I think there are women in the state quite as fit to fill this place as any man who could be named.

Mrs. Alice Cobb, of Wesleyan Female College; Mrs. Stewart, of Atlanta; Mrs. Ballard, Miss Rutherford, of Athens, have all showed marked executive ability. They could, perhaps, not be got for this place, and they have made no special study of this subject. I have purposely avoided naming a woman who would be a candidate and any of these women would find it necessary to study up this subject. But if Mrs. Alice Cobb or Mrs. Fred Cooper, the mother of the bright young man on your staff, could be put in such a place I will answer for it they would investigate this matter of employment for women with a deep interest and we would have a school which would fulfil all the requirements.

The effect of a woman at the head of this school would be to encourage and interest women, and it would be an object lesson to every girl in the state who wishes to make her living.

Now, I do not want to be classed with women who wish to compete with men in work for which the latter are especially fitted, and we are not, or who desire women to vote and hold office. I am opposed to everything of the kind. If there is anything in the world which would put me up to making a speech in public it would be to oppose such measures. I am a southern woman of the old school, and proud of it. But I am not a fossil. This is a place for which no man can be so well qualified as a thoroughly qualified woman. It is old school, and proud of it. But I am not a fossil.

This is a place for which no man can be so well qualified as a thoroughly qualified woman. It is emphatically woman's work.

It is with a good deal of hesitation that I write this letter. A gentleman friend when

It is with a good deal of hesitation that I write this letter. A gentleman friend whose title to respect would at once be admitted by your readers, said to me: "You ought to write this; but I do not feel sure that you will have any effect. Men and legislators all know how to stretch and pull wires, and you women are wholly unpracticed in it."

Now does not some intelligent woman agree with me, and will not some of them help me to express a little temale opinion on this subject? Probably those who read this in Atlanta, to which place all wires of the kind converge in Georgia, know who are the candidates whose rival claims cause this postponement. Are they so highly qualified, so superior to every possible woman Georgia could propose? Is such a man superior to the women I have mentioned? Or, to name another, superior to Miss Sergeant, of the Girls' High school. Miss Sergeant could admirably fill such a lace.

If Professor Lane, of the Technological school.

If Professor Lane, of the Technological school, were to die or resign there are women in Georgia who could fill his place admirably. The teaching of English is work for which they are peculiarly adapted. But no woman would get it, unless adapted. of English is work for which they are peculiarly adapted. But no woman would get fit, unless, indeed, in the lack of funds they desired to reduce the salary. Now, this work of the Girls' Industrial school is peculiarly women's work, and no possible man could do it so well as the best qualified woman. I think if a Georgian is to have it, it should go to a woman.

I have said quite enough. It remains to be seen whether I am the only woman in Georgia who holds this opinion, or holding it presumes to say so in the public prints.

CHARGED NEGROES BY NEW YORK INSURANCE MEN,

The Discrimination Which the New York Legislature Seeks to Correct-Provisions of the Ward Bill.

NEW YORK, February 1.-[Special.]-Dis criminations against the negro by the insurance men are the evil which the Ward bill. before the New York legislature, seek

There are 35,000 negroes in New York, and it is estimated that they pay out $182,000 year for insurance. They are complaining because insurance companies only pay two thirds the face value of policies, or else charge higher

The Ward bill requires that negroes be in sured on the same terms as white people, and provides a penalty of $50 to $500 for each viclation of this rule.

A similar law has been enacted in Massa. chusetts, and the insurance companies have quit soliciting negro business there.

The philanthropist from Senator Hoars state sheds tears over the negroes in the south, but when he comes to deal with them at home. he is strictly business, and the business is all in the interest of the said philanthropist Here is the practice as described by an nsurance man:

"Colored people, as a rule, insure with the low premium companies or what are known as beneficial companies," said John F. Collina, manager of the New York branch of the Pradential Life Insurance Company of New Jersey, "such as the Pradential. The old lina or higher priced premium companies saidoes or higher priced premium companies saidoes Jersey, "such as the Prudential. The old line or higher priced premium companies seldom are asked to insure them. The Prudential company is the pioneer in this country of beneficial insurance. When we first went into business we insured negroes and whites on the same terms and paid them the same death claims. The experience of two or three years, however, showed us the impossibility of doing so on account of the greater mortality among the colored than among the white race. Then, again, we found that we could not determine the exact risk in a colored person, as we could in a white, inasmuch as the negroes know alin a white, inasmuch as the negroes know al-most nothing in regard to their family history. It is not the exact physical condition of an It is not the exact physical condition of an applicant for a policy that is all we use as a basis for issuing a policy in our company. We want to know his parents' age, the diseases they died of, etc. Thus we can determine that there is, or is not, a liability to inherited diseases, such as consumption or heart disease. Now there are few white people that cannot tell us all about their parents, but you would be surprised at the number of negroes who can tell us nothing of their family history. Then there is the liability to pulmonary disease, which is far greater among negroes than whites.

Further, from race or other prejudices, the colored people, as a rule, live in tenement houses that are no better in many cases than stables, and our company was forced to either houses that are no better in many cases than stables, and our company was forced to either increase the rates for insuring them or reduce their benefits. The practical way, we thought, was to make the premiums for white and colored people uniform, but to reduce the benefit in case of colored people's deaths to two-thirds the face of the policy, this being in our mind a fair arrangement. The old line companies, for these reasons, while they will tell you that they will Insure a colored man, would not do so unless he were a 'gilt edge' risk. Personally, we have no ill feeling toward the colored man, and only discriminate against him for the business reasons I have advanced. So far as the Ward bill is concerned, we shall do nothing about it. We have so much business aside from our colored portion that really the bill, as a bill or a law, does not bother us."

"If you are living in the center of a forty-acre lot in an iron vault, a fire insurance company will give you a lower rate for insurance against fire than if you were living over a gunpowder manufactory," said Vice President John R. Hegeman, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. "That is our exact position in regard to discrimination in receiving negroes in our company. Actual experience has shown that the mortality so much higher-among them than among the whose that we made the same 'two-third benefit rate as the Prudential. But so far as the Ward bill is concerned, we shall pay no attention to it. We do not care whether it is a law or not."

"That bill," asid Manager George R. Hill, of the John Hancock company, "is exactly or not."

"That bill," said Manager George R. Hill, of the John Hancock company, "is exactly like the one now a law in Massachusetts. Our company is incorporated there, and, as we do business under the state law, we pay the same benefit to white or colored But, since the law passad was pract colicities him. colored people, and we do not pay royalties to our agents and commissions on collections for policies issued to them. If they wish to insure with us they must come to our office and make application. If law passed, we are not soliciting busin come to our office and make application. If we are satisfied with their condition we issue a policy, and they must come to our office and pay the premium when due, for we do not collect it as we do in the case of whites. The law makes us accept the colored man on the same basis as the white, but our experience shows that he is a greater risk than the white. Before the law was passed in Massachusetts we made the same distinction as the other companies against colored people, simply on the ground of mortality."

Tonight Stuart Robson, will smile before his many friends, as he interprets the much talked of "Bertie the Lamb," in the greatest of American comedies, by Bronson Howard, called "The Henrietta." Mr. Keene is one who, through his painstaking and discriminating efforts, has attained an enviable eminence as a tragedian. incessant labor, but the greater part is due to as inborn genius.

Keene is somewhat different from the other tragedians who adorn the American stage, in that the fire and vigor of youth still remains. Like the elder Booth, for the time being he is the character which he represents. He has surrounded himself with a company of players far superior to that of any of the great tragedians now en tour. George Learock, who will himself be one of the brightest stars in the theatrical firmament next season, is his leading man.

An Interesting Paper in The Popular Science Monthly

The matter of physical culture, or physical training, is one in which Atlanta is particularly interested just now.

The board of education is debating it vigorously, for and against, on the question of introducing it in the public schools.

An interesting, because an authoritative, paper on this subject is that by M. Georges Demeny in The Popular Science Monthly.

paper on this subject is that by M. Georges Demeny in The Popular Science Monthly.

"To these three essentials of physical education—health, harmonious development, economical utilization of muscular force—correspond a series of exercises which cannot produce their maximum useful effect without being subjected to regulations of which we proceed to sketch the principal features," says the author.

"Health may be with equal ease confirmed or destroyed by exercise. It is only necessary to refer to the deplorable condition of the ancient athletes, with whom the enormous mass of the muscles absorbed all the activity of the organism. Health, therefore, does not depend on the size of the muscles nor on absolute muscular force. It is the harmony of the functions, and does not exist without a certain daily expenditure of muscular labor. Many persons, it is true, enjoy perfect health without giving sithemselves methodically up to physical culture; but such persons are easily disturbed by departures from their regular course.

" " There is exercise in play hours, but there is not, properly, speaking, training of the movements; there is no improvement of these movements in view of a useful effect. Each one does not text the portion of exercise to which he has a right. According to the general law, the strongest ownoat hardy are more benefited than the weaker ones, and the mean level does not rise. Games and sports are still what they have always been—an eignat means, an agreeable form of exercise, the privilege of the easy class, the pleasure of the smallest number. They cannot be extended into the working class which is most interested in team, because it is, unfortunately, often obliged to live in bad hygienic conditions.

"An intensive gymnastics well taught produces superb subjects. Swedes, Swiss and Germans, lo live in bad hygienic conditions.

"An intensive gymnastics well taught produces inperb subjects. Swedes, Swass and Germans, elected from special schools of gymnastics, and the monitors of the school at Joinville le Pont, might rival the finest types of antiquity. These facts are, unhappily, exceptions; children come to our schools with hereditary blemishes and malformations which the sedentary condition, fanity stitudes and ill-directed exercises only tend to augment.

suitudes and ill-directed exercises only tend of agency.

"Absolute muscular force, measured by the maximum, and, if the limit ourselves to this gross measure, we shall have but a false idea of physical perfectionment. It is not, in fact, in the absolute measure of muscular force that a great modification is to be found, but in the aptitude for producing a large sum of work with moderate fatigue and an economical expenditure of force."

YOUNG PAINTER DIES UNDER SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES.

the Police Think Caused His Death. The Coroner Makes an Investigation.

Doc Granger, a young white man, died under very peculiar circumstances about 5 o'clock erday morning. The coroner is investigating the case, with the aid of the police. It is suspected that he died from the effects of a terrible beating which he received about

Pat Enright, another young white man, is locked up at the station house, charged with inflicting the wounds that caused Granger's death.

Granger's body bears the marks of a terrible beating, and Dr. Redwine, who examined him at the instance of the county physician, says his death was due to this.

The police are working hard on the case, and from what has already developed it looks like somebody will have to answer for Granger's death Saturday evening.

On the 17th of January, Granger was paid about $8 in a check. With this check he went to Sprayberry's barroom on Decatur street, where he had it cashed.

After leaving this bar he went out on Marietta street to a house kept by a Madam Looney. He had been drinking, and while there was robbed of a watch and what money he had. About 11 o'clock at night Patrolman Miller found Granger lying on the sidewalk at the bottom of the stairs leading to Madam Looney's He was nicked up and brought to the Istation house, where a case for drunkenness was made against him. Granger had no money upon his person, and was kept locked up until Monday when he was tried before the recorder. Judge Kontz imposed a fine of $5.75, and in default of payment he was taken to the stockade Monday afternoon.

Up to this time it had not been suspected that Granger was suffering from serious injury. His head was cut and bruised, but he made no complaints, and nothing was thought of this. Tuesday Granger did some work at the stockade, but on Wednesday he was unable to leave his bunk. He remained there until Friday, when he was removed to his parents' home, 366 Wheat street, where he died yesterday morning. Last Saturday Officer Long heard of Granger's condition. He went to see him and then eported his condition to Sergeant Ozburn. To Officer Long, who had been working on the case since he first learned of it, Granger made a partial statement of the circumstance under which he had been hurt.

Since his arrest he had not been entirely rational, but the officers thought this to be due to whisky. When Officer Long saw him he was out of his head, and it was only by chance excla-mations that he got any clue to the affair. Enough was learned from him, however, to warrant the arrest of Enright, and Minnie Williams and Daisy Lee, two of the girls in the house where he was hurt. All three are now in custody.

Vesterday Coroner Davis was notified, and during the afternoon an inquest was begun.

Minnie Williams and T. E. Ball were the v witnesses examined. Ball was in the house when Granger was there. His testimony was that he saw one of the girls take Granger's money from him. He did not know how he was injured, as he had left before Granger.

Minnie Williams said that Granger had fallen down the stairs, and that if he was in-jured he was hurt in that way.

After coming off the witness stand the Will-iams woman told an entirely[different story to Sergeant Ozburn says she confessed the whole matter to him whole matter to him.

Her story was that Pat Enright had attacked Granger, knocking him down stairs to the sidewalk. After Granger struck the sidewalk, the woman stated, Enright followed down, and continued to beat him. She said she saw him jump on Granger with his feet.

The Williams woman was kept in custody last night to insure her attendance on the inquest this afternoon as a witness. Then she will be asked to repeat the story she told Servert Chapter.

geant Ozburn.

Granger's body is in a horribly bruised up condition. He evidently died of internal injuries. The physicians are of this opinion.

The inquest will be continued this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Enright was seen in his cell by a Constitution reporter laft night.

"I haven't anything to say about it," he said. "I never saw the man in my life, and if he was hurt I don't know how it occurred." at 2:30 o'clock.

Failure to Pay Taxes.

Jackson, Miss., February 1.—[Special.]—
Under the new constitution, all electors otherwise qualified, who failed to pay all taxes legally assessed to them which they had opportunity of paying for the past two years, by February 1st, cannot vote this year. The time expired with the close of business yesterday, and it is estimated that the percentage of white electors disfranchised by their failure to pay their taxes is less than 8 per cent. The percentage of negroes failing to pay, will, it is thought, reach 40 per cent.

FROM OVER THE STATE.

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., February 1.—[Special.]— During the past week an elegant entertainment was held at the residence of Mrs. Libiscond on Clayton street, given by the engineers of the C. G. & N. railway company complimentary to Miss Belmont Gillispie, of Tennessee, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Baker, for some time and who is on the eve of leaving. It was denominated lawinton, Ga., January 31.-[Special.]-The most pleasant event of the season was the mar-riage of Mr. M. C. Hall. a prosperous young farmer of this county, to Miss Maria Taylor, a charming young lady of this town. The ceremony was performed at the church by Rev. J. H. Oliver.

Was well taken by a Judge in a Georgia city recently. A highly respectable and usually prompt citizen, who had been summoned to serve upon the jury, depended upon a cheap watch, and arrived twenty minutes late. The Judge promptly fined him $50. indicating that in this age of fine watches at reasonable prices, his excuse was not sufficient to relieve him of the fine.

This expense would have been avoided if the citizen had been wearing a Stevens Watch. They lead all others for durability and accuracy, and prices are very low. Call on J. P. Stevens & Bro., Jewelers, 47 Whitehall Street, or write to them for a catalogue.

Mayor McDonough Makes & Success of His First Effort to Keep the Barrooms Closed on Sunday.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 1.—[Special.]— About 200 liquor sellers today enjoyed the first holiday they have had on Sunday for a number of years, and several thousand men, who have been accustomed to taking a morning cocktail, and perhaps indulging in several other drinks eakfast and bed time, found themselves cut off from the source of their accus ned supply.

THE TOWN WAS DRY. Savannah was the dryest town today in the state of Georgia. Only those who had forethought enough to lay in a supply could get a drink. One could not be got from a saloon keeper for love or money.

Mayor McDonough's mandate was obeyed.

The saloons closed all their doors at midnight Saturday, and kept them closed. The police, acting under the mayor's instructions, were exceedingly vigil-ant, but were not successful in detecting a single violater of the law. Many saloon keepers having enjoyed the rare treat of a whole holiday, are inclined to stand in with the mayor and give him their aid in enforcing the ordinance in the future. Others, however, are very sour on him and the newspapers.

THE MAYOR IS FIRM. The mayor's supporters all say that the closing of the saloons is not a spasmodic effort to appease the Sabbatharians, but is part of a policy that will keep them closed for at least two years.

The cigar stores were also all closed and mokers who were not aware that such would be the case, spent the day in lamentations.

THE SUSPICIOUS DEATH OF MUSICIAN.

ial of a Venerable Citizen-A Colored Woman's Suspicious Death—The Sheriff Takes Decided Action.

AUGUSTA, Ga., February 1 .- [Special.]-Mr. J. E. Harbuck, carpenter, living at 4 Walton Way, first tenor in the carnival band, died at 2 o'clock this morning. The report is abroad that Harbuok was poisoned by whisky drank on Thursday night, when he was first taken sick. His wife denies the rumor, and her husband seldom drank, Dr. Durr has given a certificate that death was produced by congestion of the heart and lungs. Coroner Pacquet, however, will investigate the case in the morning, as there is so much talk about the

MR. WRIGHT'S FUNERAL. The First Baptist church was crowded at Davis R. Wright who gathered to pay their last respects to this old and honored citizen. Rev. Lansing Burrows's eulogy was a grand and worthy tribute to the memory of the departed senior deacon of the church. The colored family servants carried the metallic casket, covered with flowers, entwined in every design. The following deacons of the churc were honorary pallbearers: Major J. C. C. Black, J. T. Bothwell, A. Smith Irvin, Mc-Kinnie Law, Dr. D. B. Plumb, John Phinizy, A. Smith, J. D. Cole, J. C. Shecut, H. H. Hickman, F. T. Lockhart.

A STRANGE DEATH. Coroner Picquet held an inquest this after-noon over Alice Morse, a colored woman, 123 Elis street, who died, this morning, after confinement last night. Death was produced by the formation of a heart clot. It was a peculiar case. The symptoms were so strong. A wit-ness testified that a doctor was summoned to the woman, but answered too late, and if medical attention had been given her Alice's life could have been saved.

WON'T SERVE THE WARRANT.

Chief Hood this morning received from Sheriff P. C. Knight, Walton county, Georgia, a bench warrant and appearance bond charging Mr. N. M. McGaughey with perjury, and asking the chief to execute the warrant. The sheriff described McGaughey as fifty-five years old, and stated that he removed to Augusta four months ago, residing on Plunkett street.
The chief declined to serve the warrant, and returned it. He says he will not, in future, arrest parties on outside warrants; that the state or county officers will have ta execute them.

The Great Association Ball of Friday Night. Personating Historic Ancestors-A Great Social Occasion.

RICHMOND, Va., January 30 .- [Special.]-The Richmond theater was the scene of re-splendent beauty and unique anachronisms of gorgeous costuming last night. The occasion was the great association ball given for the benefit of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities. The event which equaled the brilliant and quaint colonial ball of a year ago, has been the theme on every tongue in fashionable circles for weeks past. The building had been beautifully decorated with a profusion of drapery, armorial bearings and potted plants. The parquette had been floored over for the dancers, and the dress circle and both galleries were packed with the beauty and fashion of the city. There were also many Music was furnished by a band of twenty pieces. The entertainment opened with a grand reception, at 9:30 o'clock, conducted by a committee composed of the following ladies: Mrs. John P. Branch, chairman; Mrs. Philip Watkins McKinney, Mrs. Joseph R. Anderson, Mrs. Archer Anderson, Mrs. M. L. Branch, Mrs. A. S. Buford, Mrs. Russell Robinson, Mrs. John R. Connally, Mrs. James H. Dooley, Mrs. Alfred T. Harris, Mrs. Edwin L. Hobson, Mrs. Alfred T. Harris, Mrs. Edwin L. Hobson, Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee, Mrs. P. H. Mayo, Mrs. Edward Mayo, Mrs. Hunter McGuire, Mrs. R. C. Morton, Mrs. Benjamin H. Nash, Mrs. James B. Pace, Mrs. Richard G. Pegram, Mrs. George Ross, Mrs. E. A. Saunders, Mrs. Frederic R. Scott, Mrs. Grey Skipwith, Mrs. Charles H. Talbott, Mrs. A. Randolph Tatum. Promptly at 10:30 o'clock the curtain rose, showing the dancers of the gorgeous Sir Roger de Coverly, which was the feature of the ball, grouped and about to begin the dance. Each of the dancers personated some aristocratic ancestor. All the ladies were attired in frocks of stiff brocade, enriched with gold passementerie. Each wore a gold cap, on which was coquettishly placed an ostrich pompon and aigrette. Reticules, huge fans and all the accessories and flirtations which, in the days of Sir Roger, meant as much devastation to the heart of man as it does today, were used with prominent visitors present.

Music was furnished by a band of twenty cessories and filrtations which, in the days of Sir Roger, meant as much devastation to the heart of man as it does today, were used with all possible effect. Courtesies, bows and all the old-fashioned mincing steps, the glancing of brilliant eyes, the beauty of the dancers, all combined to make a scene which will live long combined to make a scene which will live long in the memory of all who witnessed it. All the gentlemen wore the hair powdered, coats and knee breeches of gorgeous brocade, gold trimmings, knee and slipper buckles of glistening brilliants and silver-jeweled snuff boxes. Light silk hose and slippers indicated the early age in which Sir Roger de Coverly held precedence as the favorite dance, and which age exceeded the present in gorgeous and resplendent dress.

Mrs. W. L. Royall, a great-granddaughter of Patrick Henry, wore a white satin gown, covered with white mousseline de soie, embroidered with silver, silver girdle, blue and silver cap and slippers; ornaments, pearls and diamonds, which have been in the family over a hundred years. She led the Sir Roger de Coverly with Mr. Charles Bolling, who wore a coat of blue brocade trimmed with silver pasfamenterie, white satin waistcoat and blue broeches and ruffles of rare old age.

Miss Martha Dabney Bagby, who is a young beauty of aristocratic lineage, wore a gown of white crepe trimmed with old point lace, cap of white with topazes, and carried a fan of ancient date. The costuming was superb.

Wonders

Are wrought by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor in restoring gray hair to its original color, promoting a new growth, preventing the hair from falling, keeping it soft, silky, and abundant, and the scalp cool, healthy, and free from dandruff or humors. bald, but it also caused an entirely new growth of hair. I am ready to certify to this statement before a justice of the peace."— H. Hulsebus, Lewisburgh, Iowa.

"Some years ago, after a severe attack of brain fever, my hair all came out. I used such preparations for restoring it as my phy-sicians ordered, but failed to produce a growth of hair. I then tried, successively, several articles recommended by druggists, and all alike fell short of accomplishing the desired result. The last remedy I applied was Ayer's Hair Vigor, which brought a growth of hair in a few weeks. I think I used eight bottles in two years; more than was necessary as a restorative, but I liked it as a dressing, and have continued to use it for that purpose. I believe Ayer's Hair Vigor possesses virtues far above those of any similar preparation now on the market." —Vincent Jones, Richmond, Ind.

"Am I in Atlanta?"
"Well, from present appearances, I hardly think so." Among weekly newspapers such sentences as the following are common among rival con-temporaries of the same town: Why, thunder and blazes, man, don't you see I am here?"
"Yes, colonel, take a seat. Take a couple of them."

One time the elite of Americus society decided to have a big moonlight picnic at Magnolia dell, the famous pleasure ground of that fair town. It was to come off Tuesday night, and The Republican knew that if it did not have an account of the affair Wednesday morning, The Recorder would blossom out in a double-header Thursday.

BASEBALL TALK.

E NEW NATIONAL AGREEMENT REACHED.

The Players' League a Costly Experiment. The Dempsey-Fitzsimmons Fight.
Patsy Doody's Appearance.

Baseball matters have settled down and we are to have, under the new national agreement, a central committee called the national board, whose powers seem to be decidedly extensive. The members of this board are L. C. Krauthoff, of the Western Association; Allen W. Thurmon, of the American Association, and John I. Rogers, of the Learne. Besides these there is to be a chalrman League. Besides these there is to be a chairman and secretary without votes. Nick Young is, of course, the secretary. The chairmanship has not yet been settled:

The national board has, practically, the control of affairs in the baseball world. trol of affairs in the baseball world.

Commenting on the new agreement and organization, The New York World says:

zation, The New York World says:
"Every follower of baseball is anxious to see how the new national agreement will operate. It appears to be an instrument that centralizes the entire power of government in a national board, consisting of three members with votes and a chairman and a secretary without votes. If this body is really as autocratic as it appears to be, the new national agreement is one of the most beautiful devices that could be consisted for the nurtiful devices that could be conceived for the pur-pose of establishing and perpetuating a baseball monopoly. It is entirely too early, however, to judge the effect of the new departure upon the various interests of the game. Many persons think they foresee in it many hardships for the player. To me it does not seem to possess enough think they foresee in it many hardships for the player. To me it does not seem to possess enough potency to depress the player beyond the limits used for that purpose in the old agreement. Merit will succeed on the ball field just the same as it will in other pursuits. Men who can play ball and are capable of making advantageous terms for themselves will get as much salary in 1891 as they did in 1889. Therefore the question of salary rests largely with the player himself. There are features of the new national agreement which could tures of the new national agreement which could be harshly criticised, but as it is an experiment, and as there is a general desire on the part of everybody who loves the game to restore it to its former popularity, perhaps it will be just as well to let the compact stand, at least for the present, without throwing obstacles in its way."

The Players' League was a costly experiment but as there is a disposition among those who downed it to let bygones be bygones, it may yet from a player's standpoint, be all for the best. I't will be all right from the standpoint of a lover of the game if it gives good ball.

But where does the south come in? Emphatically, the south "ain't in it" when it omes to baseball.

The writers on sporting topics are still talking about the Dempsey-Fitzsimmons fight and a great deal that is interesting is finding its way into print.

With his usual confidence, Dempsey fully expected to whip his fight. At the end of the first round he was still of the same opinion, but one more round showed him that he had met his natch, and by the eighth round he was badly whipped.

Jack McAuliffe and Tuthill, who were Dempsey's strong friends, gave up the fight after the second round.

Fitzsimmons and Dempsey are about as different in their street appearances as two men could well be. Dempsey is a natty little fellow, dresses well and does not look much the typical sport. Neither does Fitzsimmons—but the reason is different. He's a country yoke in appearance. "The sort of a fellow," as one of the sports put it, "that you'd punch in the head if he jostled up against you."
Whew! what a mistake the fellow who did that

An incident of his greenness is told by his newly made admirers. This was at Jim Cor ett's benefit the night after the big fight, of which he was the lion. Fitz, decked out in new clothes, a plug hat, light tan-colored gloves, patent-leather boots and a white satin cravat watched the proceedings intently from a seat above the ring. The boots which he purchased at Jiumy Carroll's suggestion seemed to shrink after he left the store and they annoyed him not a after he left the store and they annoyed him not a little. After the first bout he carefully removed his gloves and pulled off the troublesome foot-gear. He held them by the straps until after the show was over and then put them on, apparently oblivious of the fact that he had committed an inpardonable breach of etiquette.

unpardonable breach of ettquette.

For a time after his victory Fitzsimmons was the same quiet, unassuming fellow the New Orleans sports knew before the battle, but having crowds at his heels and being lionized for a few nours naturally increased the size of his cranius

Fitzsimmons is generally regarded as a heavy weight. That it was his size and length of reach that whipped Dempsey, there is no doubt.

A score of men who saw the fight declared that the New Zealander could whip all the heavy-weights, barring Sullivan. He will not put in a old for the heavy-weight cha and he shows his level-headedness here. He claims, however, that he is not a heavy-weight "boiled down," but says he never weighed more Patsy Doody was the first man to challenge Fitz. Here is the fiat he sent to the long-armed wonder: I. Patsy Doody, of New York, do hereby challenge you, Bob Fitzsimmons, to fight me for fun, for $50 or for $5,000 a side. Man and money to be found at Steve Brodie's place on the Bowery. I can be ready to fight at ten minutes' notice.

Parsy Doody. N. B.—I insist on having my own style of fight-ing, which is as follows: You lower yourself to the bottom of a well and let me throw stones at P. D.

Sleeplessness, nervouds rostration, nervous dyspepsia, dullness, blues, cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine. Samples free at all druggists.

I know from experience that Dr. Bull's Sar-saparilla is the right medicine to use when one feels weak and debilitated. I believe it saved my life, for I grew worse every day from the effects of nervous debility, of which this remedy cured me completely.—C. J. Grave, Wilmington, Del.

All the games will be played in the club rooms in the Centennial building, and the chess players of the city, and other persons who desire to witness the contest are invited to be present.

Year before last these players contested a short match, which was won by Professor Wurm by a very close score. Since then Mr. Orchard has encountered the leading New York and Boston experts, and defeated them, so he is considerably stronger now than he was
